

August 2015

Dear Classical Guitar Aficionados,

August is at our door, pointing to the “last rose of summer” in final bloom, welcoming with languid hand Fall’s new energies and activities. Happily, we’ve got a wonderful menu of classical guitar events waiting to take the stage. Although August is still a bit early for me (I reminisce fondly about the quarter system of yore), semester scheduling is the current rubric, so semesters it will be.

We’ve got Xavier’s International Guitar Series, guitar society concerts in Indianapolis, Columbus, and Cincinnati, student and ensemble programs at CCM (including Classical Guitar Ensemble and Classical Guitar Chamber Music), two midweek noontime church recitals, and seven major concert artists performing in the TriState area – America’s JASON VIEAUX, France’s ROLAND DYENS, Thailand’s EKACHAI JEARAKUL, Russia’s IRINA KULIKOVA, Italy’s OSCAR GHIGLIA, America’s SHARON ISBIN, and France’s GAELE SOLAL! We’re lucky to be sitting in the vortex of this sweep of touring talent.

Scan the calendar (reverse side), circle dates, and smile broadly as you anticipate the stimulating, enjoyable presentations you’ll be attending. The variety of venues and dramatis personae is a real plus. Much to look forward to! Keep your practicing up, attend your guitar society meetings, support the instrument we all love. You can’t beat the live sound of a beautiful classical guitar. It fills your soul. See you many times,
